If you ask the average American, today is a day of beer and green-dyed rivers and shamrocks; a day set aside simply for enjoying ourselves. For far too many, however, this day feels just as unlucky as the many days before.

Before we head out for a pint, (or stay in for a social distancing party), we wanted to take a moment to remember those who our justice system has failed — and who the Libertarian Party is committed to fighting for, no matter what.

READ OUR BLOG POST HIGHLIGHTING THE STORIES OF CHELSEA MANNING, ROSS ULBRICHT, AND NATHANIEL WOODS

These are somber stories, and rightly fill us with sympathy and sorrow. Thankfully, there is still hope. There is one political party who will not waiver on principles and will always stand firm against a power-hungry state that clings to the authority to say who will live and who will die.

The Libertarian Party is here and does not take a day off from pushing back against those who cause the greatest injustices in our county. So before you head out (or stay in — probably safer to raise a glass in your own homes right now), make a contribution and show that you support real change and real justice in America.
