Tax Protest Groups to Join Forces Nationwide For 'Taxpayer's Action Day' on October 27th

Libertarians across the country will be participating in "Taxpayer's Action Day" on Saturday, October 27.

The event's sponsors, Council for Citizens Against Government Waste, invited Libertarians to serve as local organizers. Hundreds of tax protest organizations will also be participating. Rally organizers are supplied with sample flyers, T-shirts, press releases, etc. And, of course, local organizers will be given names of all people in their area expressing an interest in the event—a valuable asset for local LP organizations.

The LP has also printed a special run of LP tax flyers, available free from LP Headquarters, for use at the event.

The day will begin with "Taxpayer's Revolt," a television special airing on The Family Channel at 10am (EST), available on cable across the country. The program will take a look at why so many people are angry at the political establishment. LP National Director Nick Dunbar and LP Vice Chair Mary Gingell were part of the studio audience for the program when it was taped earlier this month in Washington, D.C.

Following the program, tax protest rallies will be held in every Congressional district in the country. The theme for the rallies is "It's Time for a Clean Sweep." Some Libertarian participants will be using the slogan, "For a Clean Sweep, Vote Libertarian."

'Bcampaign 1990' Hopes Funds Will Bring Legislative Victories

A recent fundraising appeal from the LP's Campaign '90 Committee has been doing very well. The appeal was put out on behalf of several state legislative candidates who are in what are perceived to be winnable races and, therefore, worthy of special consideration.

The first $15,000 raised will go directly to Greg Johnston, candidate for state representative in Idaho. Johnston has raised a significant amount of money on his own—a prerequisite for consideration for Campaign '90 funding—and is running a very active race. Amounts over $15,000 raised will be donated to Toby Nixon's campaign for state legislature in Georgia and Bob Waldrop's state legislative campaign in Utah.

Nixon has been successful in gaining the support of some active but disenchanted Republicans. Waldrop plans to knock on every door in his district before Election Day.

BALLOT ACCESS UPDATE

The LP Ballot Access Committee is moving ahead with the job of gaining ballot status for the LP's 1992 presidential ticket. This month, petitioners will be sent into Alabama to begin collecting signatures to gain ballot status there for the 1992 elections.

Libertarian councilmember plans to avoid 'professional politics'

Bill Sobers, a former councilman in the small Oregon town of Crawfordsdale, has decided not to run for a second term in office. Sobers, who is known for his libertarian philosophy, said he will not seek re-election because he believes the council is becoming too bureaucratic.

Sobers said he was approached by several council members about running for a second term, but he declined. "I've been on the council for four years, and it's time to let someone else have a chance," Sobers said. "I think the council needs a new perspective, and I think it's time for a change." Sobers said he is planning to focus on his business, which is a small hardware store in Crawfordsdale.

Sobers is a vocal supporter of smaller government and limited taxation. He has frequently spoken out against what he sees as the growth of the city's bureaucracy, and he has been critical of the city's spending on what he considers unnecessary services.

"I think the city needs to look at its budget and see where it can cut back," Sobers said. "I think there are a lot of programs that could be cut, and I think the city should be looking at ways to save money." Sobers said he will continue to support his business and his family, and he will not have time to devote to another council term.

Sobers said he is proud of the work he has done for the city, but he believes it is time for a new direction. Libertarians seek to house ‘politically homeless’

It takes a dynamic and appealing personality to be a leader in a party that is at odds with the political establishment. In 1990, Boddie was named as the Libertarian candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives. He ran as a Libertarian in the 2000 election, and was subsequently elected to the General Assembly.

In opposition to authoritarianism, for left on personal issues, and for right on economic issues, the Libertarian Party is the only party that seeks to house ‘politically homeless’ voters. Their goal is to create a situation where individual liberties are protected, and where the government does not interfere with the lives of individuals.

Marshall banks on senior vote

Marshall is a radiologist who has established a second residence in the 2000 election. He ran as the Libertarian candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives. He ran as a Libertarian in the 2000 election, and was subsequently elected to the General Assembly.

The challenger, Boddie, would not allow a breakthrough in the race, as he ran as a Libertarian in the 2000 election. He was subsequently elected to the General Assembly.

The LP’s opposition to excessive taxation and victimless crime laws is a key factor in winning the support of many Americans. The party is committed to ensuring that individuals have the freedom to live their lives as they see fit, without government interference.

In local and national elections, Boddie said that he had based his campaign on the LP’s opposition to excessive taxation and victimless crime laws. He described a Libertarian as someone who understands the market economy, who is humane. He called the LP’s opposition to excessive taxation and victimless crime laws a key factor in winning the support of many Americans.
