2 re-elected; ballot status retained

by Ted Brown 🛎

CALIFORNIA LIBERTARIANS easily retained ballot status in the November 8 election, and reelected two council members: Sandi Webb in Simi Valley and Bonnie Flickinger in Moreno Valley. Public interest in the Libertarian alternative was at an all time high, pushed by voter anger at "politics as usual" and the appearance of our statewide candidates in the Ballot Pamphlet for the first time.

Calls to the Party's 800 number in San Francisco, primarily manned by Mark Valverde, showed great enthusiasm for Richard Boddie's call for prosecuting Attorney General Janet Reno for the murder of Branch Davidians at Waco, Richard Burns' strong statement regarding the War on Drugs, and all the candidates showing support for the 2nd Amendment. Most media attention went to Richard Rider who, as the candidate for governor, sought votes to deny Pete Wilson victory and to throw the election to Kathleen Brown.

Leading the vote totals were Ted Brown, candidate for Insurance Commissioner, who polled over 315,000 votes (or 4.2%) and Jon Petersen, candidate for Treasurer, who polled over 308,000 votes (or 4.1%). In all, 5 of the 7 candidates for state office polled the 2% or more needed to stay on the ballot in California.

Highest district percentages went to two candidates in two-way races: Guy Wilson (37th Congressional District) with 22.2% and Daniel Dalton (55th Assembly District) with 19.3%. Wilson ran a vigorous campaign fueled by contributors anxious to take advantage of Rep. Walter Tucker's indictment on extortion and bribery charges.

webb/Flickinger Reelected

Terry Savage, who ran a very active campaign in the 20th Assembly District in the Bay Area, polled 6.9% and was the balance of power between the two old party candidates. Others who polled more than the difference between the Democrat and Republican were Ross Crain (4th Congressional), David Bersohn (22nd Congressional), John Koehler (24th Congressional), Jack Tyler (36th Congressional), Chris Hoogenboom (49th Congressional), Linda De Groat (12th Senate), Robert Welch (27th Assembly) and Alan Carlan (54th Assembly). As of press time it was possible that Carlan's campaign and vote total may have helped deny Republicans control of the State Assembly.

VOTERS agreed with the Libertarian position on several ballot propositions, most notably Proposition 181 (Rail Bonds), 185 (Gas Tax Hike) and 186 (Single Payer Health Care). Those three failed miserably. Unfortunately, voters passed 184 (Three Strikes and You're Out), 187 ("Save our State"), and 189 (Bail Exception), the last of which had a Libertarian argument in the ballot pamphlet. You can't win them all! Across the country voters passed a number of tax limitation initiatives.

SANDI WEBB, in left photo, was easily reelected to the Simi Valley City Council, running second in a race for two seats. In another race, Bonnie Flickinger, right, won 59 percent to 41 percent to retain her Moreno Valley council seat. As of press time, it appeared that Steve Green (not shown) was unable to take a seat on the Santee City Council, running fourth for three seats.

In other election news, two Libertarians were elected to the New Hampshire Legislature: incumbent Don Gorman and former Californian Jim McClarin. Unfortunately, incumbents Finlay Rothhaus and Andy Borsa were defeated. Six other Libertarians were elected to a variety of local positions. The LP gained ballot status in Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, South Dakota and Wyoming, thus entering the 1996 campaign season on the ballot in 22 states, the most ever at this point.

Party Archives: The Bank of Knowledge

by Kim Goldsworthy 🖾

THIS MONTH, instead of focusing on tips and techniques for local activism, I want to talk about something I believe to be important at the state level. But it does relate to a past theme we have covered: namely, getting knowledge or experience from one mind to another, quickly, consistently, simply. While you read this, think if this challenge has a parallel in your own county central committee.

One campaign promise I made in 1993 in my run for state chair was to establish a party archive. An "archive" is a place to keep records. The word "archives" (plural) refers to the records themselves. Why is a party archive useful, even valuable? Because it is the link between the old and future administrations.

Here's some background on our situation. At our annual convention in February, our party elects members to the 15person board called the 'Executive Committee' (the board that conducts the party business between conventions). This group corresponds to what is called an "executive board" in the world of corporate, not-for-profit, 501(c) associations. That is, there are officers and other board members who act as trustees in the name of the overall organization, including managing its assets, its liabilities, its growth, and the

Here's the rub. Newly-elected members of the Executive Committee for the past few years got no briefing of any kind. No minutes, no handbook, no policy statements. There is no link of any kind between the outgoing board and the new board. It's a clean slate, for better or for worse.

Without a common link between the Young Turks (i.e., inexperienced members) and the Old Guard (i.e., reelected members), as they sit around the table representing us, the question is raised: Will the new board "reinvent the wheel"? What is to prevent them from resolving the recurring problems that the Executive Committee handled in 1992, 1990, 1988, etc.? Likewise, will in turn may have contradicted the previous year's policies, ad infinitum? Back in 1986, when I first sat on the Executive Committee as a representative of my region, like many other representatives. I had never before served on any non-profit organization's Board of Directors. Before then, I never had the opportunity to do things in the name of an organization, like participate in lawsuits and set budgets. And, more importantly, no one came forward to explain the big picture to me and the newer members. It was a case of 'learning by observing' — on-the-job training — the same method used in the dark ages of Europe, back when common people could not read and write.

If this strikes you as 'low tech', it should. But, back then, I did not know any better.

Any question referring to historical party activities was answered by the most senior members. The "Olde Tymers" were those people who attended the first-ever organizing meeting of the LPC, or people who personally were involved in qualifying our party for permanent ballot status in California.

Let's analyze. While this "sage method" has the advantages of getting quick answers, the drawback is once these "sages" die, drop out, move, make babies, or get an outside life, their collective wisdom goes with them, never to return

Thus it occurred to me that someday, maybe, we'll start writing things down. Maybe we'll start filing our minutes and committee reports in a centralized location so that research may be done by anyone, quickly and

Such a method would be a big change from the status quo - hunting for boxes in the garages of all former LPC secretaries.

Finally we made it happen. In 1993, we chased down all the papers, all the files, all the boxes in all the garages that we could legally and humanly access. We culled the papers relating to LPC business. Thanks to the efforts primarily of Ray Acosta, Ed Moss and Gail Lightfoot, we sorted those minutes, reports and memoranda. Ray Acosta created a system of folders in a sensible order and put them into a box-like container. (It really is, as Steve Allen used to say, "no bigger than a bread box.") We now have (the beginnings of) a party archive. As Shakespeare said, "A modest thing, but thine

The good news is that from 1993 onward, important party documents (e.g, platforms, bylaws, resolutions, and related business papers like USPS bulk mail permits) will have a permanent home. The bad news is that very little survived from the 1970's and 1980's. What can you do to help our little archive grow?

Agenda and meeting schedule of 1995 LPC convention

THE LPC state convention is February 17-20, 1995, at the Airport Hilton Hotel in Oakland. The earliest business will be meeetings of the Platform, Bylaws and Convention Rules committees on Friday. The time (usually 10:00 or 11:00 am until finish) is set by the committee members. Each Region may send one representative to serve on the Platform Committee. A Bylaws Committee of five will have been selected by the ExCom in November.

Also on Friday, a training session for Regional Officers will be held beginning at 10:00 am and ending at 4:00 pm. The convention business sessions are on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The Convention Rules determine the agenda. The Chair sets the times to convene, recess and adjourn. Once the convention delegates accept the time schedule proposed by the Chair, it takes a suspension of the rules to change the times. Speakers or other events are not scheduled during business session times.

Wanted: Leaders

OFFICERS of the Libertarian Party of California and Executive Committee members will be elected in February 1995. Those of you who are active at the regional level may want to consider stepping up to the state level. Regional activity is the basis and center of the LPC; however, someone has to keep the ship of state afloat. Maybe you are that person. If so, call the current holder of the office you are considering to find out what is involved. Then, let LPC News know what you plan so that the membership can be informed as well. Every part of our organization needs committed volunteers to generate the many activities on behalf of the regions, state party and our candidates.

Training session for regional officers set

THE SECOND ANNUAL training session for Regional Officers will be held Friday, February 17 at 10:00 am at the Airport Hilton in Oakland. The meeting will be interactive, with handouts and a lunch break, and will last until 4:00 pm. There will be a fee for the costs of producing the manual. Reservations will be required. Look for more information in the February issue of LPC News or contact Gail Lightfoot, Southern Vice Chair.

Brown, Petersen top state vote getters

TED BROWN, running for Insurance commissioner, once agian received more votes than any other alternative party candidate in the state. He and Jon Petersen (who ran for State Treasurer) were the only ones to top 300,000 votes, with 315,827 (4.2% and 308,337 (4.1%) respectively.

JON PETERSEN was elated with the results. "My goal was 200,000 votes. Getting over 300,000 is fantastic. It shows that a lot of people read page 16 of the California Ballot pamphlet and liked what I had to say. 1998, here I come!"

Beer Drinkers, take note

Home brews feature of 1995 LPC Convention

IT MAY BE HARD to imagine today, but homebrewing was illegal in 1977. When Jimmy Carter took office, he feared that his brother, already a public relations embarrassment, might actually be arrested when his private brewing activities were revealed. Billy Carter, like many Americans, loved to drink beer. But besides drinking it, Billy also liked to brew his own beer. So, with an executive order signed soon after he became president, Carter re-legalized our right to make our own beer, in our own kitchens, with our own barley, malt, yeast, hops and water.

Today, we have hundreds of homebrew supply stores throughout the country. Hundreds of brew pubs and regional micro-breweries produce some of the best suds you've probably ever tasted. The major beer producers have finally had to acknowledge that the market for crafted, quality beers is larger than they ever imagined, and the demand for such beers is rapidly outpacing that for their standard generic American Light Pilsner. But besides the variety, quality and low cost of homebrewed beers, many Libertarians appreciate the freedom of throwing back a cold, refreshing beverage produced by their own hands and almost completely free of taxation and regulation. The only restriction placed on homebrewed beers by the government is that such beverages cannot be sold, but must be given away freely. Sure sounds like freedom to

If you are interested in participating in an informal beer tasting and appreciation at the LPC convention, Embrace Freedom!, send information about your beer to Terry Floyd at 240 Sybil Avenue, San Leandro, CA 94577. You may also send email to Terry.Floyd@cmnsens.fidonet.org

Please include a copy of the recipe you plan to submit and bring at least a six-pack to Oakland (more, if possible). Convention work tends to make one thirsty.

The Liberty Convention Services hospitality suite will be well-stocked with a generous supply of FREE homebrewed beer for thirsty Libertarians, and we encourage your participation and appreciation of this delicious freedom, once lost but now regained. We look forward to seeing you there!

Notes from the Chair

Party Archives: The Bank of Knowledge

Continued from page 2- First, there is a demand for real bylaws, mostly from newly forming and re-forming counties. We have no region bylaws on file except for the two new central committees created in 1994 (Antelope Valley and Gold Country Libertarians). Luckily, we have template bylaws that Ed Moss included in his leadership handbook. Please ask your old timers (I mean, "most senior activists") if your county has bylaws written down. Please forward a copy to the LPC to aid future county central committees.

Regarding the ExCom, if you have minutes from Executive Committee meetings of ANY YEAR, and likewise committee reports, officer reports, etc., please check with Ray Acosta. We have many gaps to fill. Regarding conventions, if you have memoranda or newsletters describing the resolutions that passed on the floor of the annual convention of ANY YEAR, please dig it out and either photocopy it or send the original to Secretary Acosta.

In closing, I will share this with you. My favorite resolution that I ever heard on any convention floor was one authored by Steve Pencall (Region 67, East San Gabriel Valley), the infamous "mushroom hunting" resolution. It seems that our democratically-elected representatives in Sacramento were considering a bill to ban the gathering of wild mushrooms — for our own safety, of course! I thought the very concept of grown-ups seriously debating this wicked, wicked practice of picking maverick mushrooms was just plain crazy. Sadly, that is one resolution that failed to make the archives, despite being passed unanimously ... and loudly, viva voce.

Let's not allow such a loss to happen again! And thanks to a change in our convention rules that I suggested in 1994, it won't. We now publish minutes of convention business each day. Voila!...Q.E.D. ...case closed.

1995 LPC Convention; Progress Report #1

EMBRACE FREEDOM! is the theme of the 1995 LPC Convention. As in previous years, we hope the theme will be explored in depth by a wide range of guests and delegates. Libertarians are fond of saying that freedom is the one commodity so precious that it cannot be bought or sold, but must be given away to be effective. It is also one of the most difficult products to sell to a market that has forgotten what it really Embrace Freedom! would like to present to the public the proposition that freedom is better than the superficially benign tyranny under which we now live; that freedom is good for everyone; that repealing oppressive laws and reducing the size of government would benefit us all, rich and poor, young and old, men and women, gay and straight. The average citizen may not be aware of the existence of the Libertarian Party, and even if they are, many feel the word has a negative connotation.

We plan to have a number of speakers and presentations that we hope will demonstrate the appeal of libertarianism to a public.

We've also implemented a new concept in political conventions: the Supporting Package. Since only about 200 of the dues-paying members of the LPC ever attend the annual convention, we thought it was high time we let the rest of the party members know what goes on at these events. If you'd like to attend Embrace Freedom! but simply cannot find the time or money to come to Oakland, consider becoming a Supporter. For only $17.76, you can receive all the pre-convention, and post-convention publicity mailings, all the printed program materials from the convention, and post-convention copies of the revised LPC Platform and Bylaws. Additionally, the first Libertarians to purchase Supporting Packages will receive a beautiful Libertarian Party T-shirt proclaiming, "Freedom is for everyone!".

Of course, if you don't attend, you won't be able to participate in the Coffee House Crawl on Thursday night, drink our tax-free homebrewed beer in the Hospitality Suite, or meet Harry Browne, author of "How I Found Freedom in an Unfree World," and our first-announced Presidential candidate for the 1996 election, or LPC Chair Kim Goldsworthy, or Mary Ruwart, author of "Healing Our World," or the members of the Executive Committee, or any of the other LPC activists who contribute their elbow grease to conduct the business of the Party, but being a Supporter is the next best thing. If by some chance you do show up in Oakland in February, you can convert your Supporting Package to an attending package right at the door, simply by paying the difference. Other confirmed guests include: George O'Brien, Richard Winger, Bob Poole, Sally Foster, Chuck Olson, Larry Dodge, Richard Cowan and Irwin Schiff (another declared candidate for the LP nomination for the Presidential race in 1996). By the time the next Progress Report is ready, we'll have an even more impressive line-up of speakers. If any of the above intrigues you, please take a moment to fill out the registration form. We're looking forward to seeing you in Oakland!

Embrace Freedom! will be held at the Oakland Airport Hilton on the long President's Day weekend, February 17-20, 1995.

"Campaign has a ring to it: Libertarian candidate Bill Gaillard doesn't have much money to spend on introducing himself to voters during his campaign for the 53rd Assembly District seat.

But you just might get to recognise his name anyway. Or at least his ring. Gaillard is handing out fancy business card holders that, thanks to microchip technology, ring like a telephone when you open them up. He gave one to reporter Carol Baker. On the outside it reads: "When you're looking for the best..." Inside it reads: "Give me a ring!" and the exclamation point lights up and blinks with each ring.

Another candidate might pay a pretty penny for the slick gimmick, but Gaillard's a bargain hunter. "I picked up a whole huge bag of them at a garage sale," he told Carol. "They were three for a dime."

Curious about how much the card covers normally cost, Gaillard called a company that makes them and found out they were $2.43 a pop - too much for a Libertarian Party party favor.

But if Gaillard can make a name for himself with a $10 bag of garage sale bargains, imagine what he might squeeze out of a state budget of billions?"

Nurseweek Magazine

Thanks to Eric Garris, life member of the LPC and DTP Specialist for NURSEweek Magazine, the Libertarian Party was covered in the September and October issues.

Garris was instrumental in seeing that Southern Vice Chair Gail Lightfoot was interviewed for an article on nurses in politics.

by Marilyn Wann

Dateline: September, 1994

"Nurses campaign for candidates, run for office." "...The Libertarian Party, with its emphasis on personal freedom and a free market, has seen an increase in new supporters who list healthcare reform and big government as major concerns, said public health nurse Gail Lightfoot, RN, Southern Vice Chair for the LPC.

Between 100 and 125 Libertarians hold office nationwide. In California, eight or 10 party members hold elected offices such as city council or school board memberships, said Lightfoot, a Visiting Nurse Association field nurse in Lightfoot has been involved in political campaigns since Barry Goldwater's 1964 campaign for President. She has been a Libertarian since the Party was founded. "Now people are interested in our position. we've learned to phrase our responses in a more positive way..." she said of her political philosophy.

Garris then persuaded the editorial staff to include another article on Richard Rider and the LP.

"Libertarians' healthcare views"

by Eric Garris

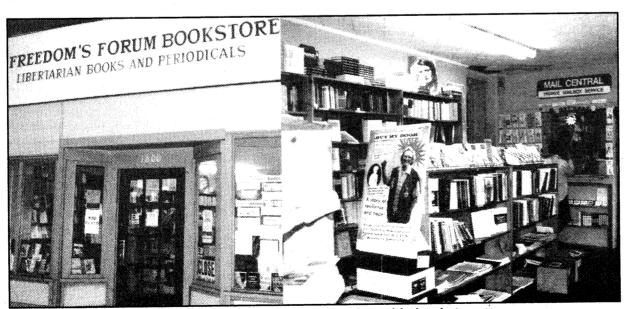

Dateline: October 1994

"The Libertarian Party favors individual responsibility and liberty over government control in virtually all areas of society. Such government control, Libertarians believe, stifles progress and diversity and imposes a strict set of standards on the entire population that can interfere with an individual's liberty and belief systems. Libertarians support a smaller government limited to the protection of individual rights and property.

In healthcare matters, Libertarians support the right of people to pursue alternative forms of treatment and prevention. They favor legalization of medical marijuana and other substances not approved by the FDA. Decisions use such substances should be made by individuals with fully informed consent, Libertarians say.

LPC candidate for Governor, Richard Riders's answers to NURSEweek's questions and his position on healthcare issues were summarized by Garris in the remainder of the boxed article within a 2 page interview of candidates Brown and Wilson.

As a result of the articles in NURSEweek, a number of calls came into the 800 number from nurses around the

space with Reg. 66

THE LIBERTARIAN PARTY of Los Angeles, a confederation of the Los Angeles County LPC regions, continues to grow and develop. Plans to put the newsracks purchased earlier this year out in the City of Long Beach are under way. After a period of having only a part-time office manager, LPLAC again has a full time staff in the person of Jim Bryan. Bryan was at the very first LP convention in Colorado and became the first Chair of the Oregon LP. In the 1970's, he quit his career as a teacher to start a consulting business advising professionals how to protect their income from lawsuit judgments and taxation. He was successful enough to be sought by the IRS for prosecution and ultimately sentenced to 25 years in federal prison. In late September, he was released after 8 years to a half-way house in the Los Angeles area. He has taken on the job of managing the LPLAC office at the Region 66 location in Long Beach. Bryan has a wealth of experience and is uniquely suited for the various tasks and problems encountered in a one man office.

800 number Headquarters

IN CASE you are curious but you don't get to roam around San Francisco that much, here are two views of Freedom's Forum bookstore at 1600 Market Street. Owned and operated by the International Society of Individual Liberty, the bookstore has too many wonderful books on libertarianism and activism to begin to mention. Vince Miller, president of ISIL, and James Elwood, an ISIL director, handle the day-to-day operations assisted by Mark Valverde. All are active in local regional activities. Valverde also keeps a good selection of the latest bulletins and bumper stickers on current political issues in the store window.

In addition to being a bookstore, Freedom's Forum is a full service print shop and a mail service. ISIL provides the personnel to answer calls to the LPC's 800 number and to send information about the LPC out to those inquiries. In the inside photo, you can see the mail window at the back. Valverde can be seen behind the counter at his computer answering calls on the 800 number and inputting data on each phone call.

A message from the Central Valley

THIS NEWSLETTER is my effort to bring the revolution to the Central Valley Region. But the newsletter itself is not the revolution, it is merely the seed. This is my seventh effort at reaching out, at pulling together enough like-minded individuals, dedicated to freedom and willing to put forth a little effort on its behalf.

You may have noticed a time lag since my last newsletter. The reasons for the delay are that I needed a break and that I needed some help. Quite frankly, I was getting tired of doing all the work myself. Several recent events have prodded me to put out another newsletter.

I got a letter from Gail Lightfoot who is the Southern Vice Chair of the LPC. She sent me a letter which was sent to her by the City of Fresno pushing Fresno as a good place for the LPC to hold one of its future state conventions. Gail suggested I pursue this and I agree. Hosting the state convention would do a lot to get more of you interested, not in just "none of the above", but to really understand the Party's platform.

I also got another couple of checks in the mail from the state party. Hospefully these newsletters are having an effect and getting more people to become dues paying party members. My sincerest thanks to Allison Burleigh, Eduard Esty, Jay Gillette, Marcia Morse, Tim Cauallero, Jaak Sanders and Christopher Wiebe! I also received a few phone calls from people expressing interest. I hope you'll come out to a future meeting.

 $An important \, reason \, was a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, and \, corles \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, and \, corles \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \, from \, Mark \, Corley. \, Mark \, attended \, a \, get-together \, a \, letter \, I \, received \,$ a few months back and expressed interest in the Party's philosophy. A few weeks ago I got a letter letting me know that he had noticed the newsletters had stopped, wanted to help and looked forward to our next function. Thanks Mark. I needed that recognition that someone out there was listening, and that I would not have to continue the fight alone.

Hopefully your interest will include taking a position on the Executive Committee of our region. As I stated earlier, I cannot do this alone. We need enough people to commit several hours a week toward making some of our goals a reality. I need at least three or four people for a working committee.

Some of the things I'd like to see happen in the near future:

*distribution of California Liberty, the LPC's new outreach newspaper, in the valley. The LP of Los Angeles County is making vending machines available and the proceeds can be retained by the *running several candidates for office locally including at least one for Fresno City Council and one for Fresno County Board of Supervisores. We must end the age of the "paper candidacy".

*hosting the 1997 LPC state convention in the Fresno Convention Center with a trip to Yosemite. *continued outreach at events where people sympathetic to our message are likely to be in attendence such as tax day and gun shows. With the passage of yet more gun restrictions, it won't be long before the NRA starts pouring money into our coffers.

*opening a libertarian student organization on some local campuses.

*authoring and petitioning for local ballot initiatives

*setting up a booth at next year's county fair.

Another factor that has rekindled my loathing for government is that cronyism recently won out over the interest of the taxpayers in Placer County, costing me a much sought-after job move. The firm I work for put in a bid to provide public defender services to Placer County, a service we already provide Fresno, Madera and Amador counties with great savings to the taxpayers of those counties. The current contractor in Placer has been robbing the county blind for the past four years. My firm's proposal would have saved the county $3.5 million over the next four years. So what happened? The Board of Supervisors voted 3-2 to renew with the current contractor!

Not only did this inspire me to renew my crusade for common sense in government locally but I an encouraging the Placer County LP to use the issue against one of those Board members who is facing a run-off reelection bid in November. If we're successful, the new board may decide to reopen the public defender issue and save the taxpayers money after all.

With the thankful collapse of Bill Clinton's efforts to impose a government run health care plan that would have made Karl Marx cringe, the LP is at the heart of a debate on health care reform. Many of the ideas contained in Project Healthy Choice, the LP's free market health care proposal $(Medical \, Savings \, Accounts, changes \, in \, the \, tax \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, in \, code \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, be \, showing \, a \, video \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, support \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, support \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, support \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support. \, I \, will \, support \, code) \, are \, gaining \, support \,$ presentation on free market health care ideas in the next few months. Anyone attending will receive a copy of the LP's media package.

Not content to rest on their laurels after producing PHC, the LP has just released Operation $Safe \, Streets, a \, crime \, reduction \, proposal \, stressing \, an \, end \, to \, the \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, divisive \, War \, on \, Drugs, \, destructive, \, destructiv$ the reascension of the Second Amendment and the privatization of prisons, welfare and schools.

These two excellent policy papers are just the beginning for what has been looking like a much improved, professional, competitive national LP. Steve Dasbach, Perry Willis, Bill Winter and the paid staff at National have been doing a great job in my opinion. By the time 1996 rolls around The D's and R's will have much more to contend with than Ross Perot.

Meanwhile, we must concentrate on continuing to build the Valley Libertarians into a credible, effective, recognized organization. To that end, please attend my next and hopefully Until then, remember to become a member or renew that lapsed membership in both the state and national Libertarian Parties. Most of your dues will come back to the local region if you so indicate.

One region's approach

Dateline: September 16, 1994

THE SEPTEMBER meeting of Santa Barbara's Free Marketeers Mid Month Supper Club was attended by 14 members and nonmembers of the LPC plus the invited speaker. According to one LPC member, this turnout was less than usual. The meeting began at 6:00 pm with dinner. At 7:00 pm, there were general announcements, followed at 8:00 pm by the featured speaker. Heading up the evening was a video of the question and answer portion of an ABC 20/20 TV program shown at the previous month's meeting. Tom Stossel was the host of a discussion of how the media actually promotes fear by focusing on risks in our society and how some media personalities and others feel about the cause and effect of "scare stories". The program generated a series of articles in the L.A. Times. The group was encouraged to write the L.A. Times and thank them for coverage of the topic. Everyone was encouraged to watch the future programs by Stossel so that tapes can be made for viewing. They were also reminded to clip and save articles of interest in the newspaper.

After that, announcements were made including an update by your editor on LPC News and California Liberty. One person monitors radio commentary on issues of interest, such as the crime bill, and reports back on what he hears over the airways. Another informed the group that the "Beer Drinkers of America" has asked the readers of its newsletter to send in their voter stubs. The BDA plans to send the stubs to legislators as proof that these voters are opposed to high taxes on beer. Another person played a recording of Russ Limbaugh giving credit to the 'libertarian' CATO Institute for figures on the individual state costs in taxes compared to the benefits projected for the new Crime Bill.

As an introduction to the speaker, one of the LPC members gave a brief lesson in the history of the Democratic Party. From the time of its formation for Thomas Jefferson's presidential campaign up until the "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" campaign, the Democratic Party's focus was federalism.

The main speaker for the evening was a Democrat just seven months into his first term on city council. A self-described constitutionalist, he is very libertarian in his beliefs and a delightful speaker. One of his first comments was that the bigger an organization gets the less it is able to adapt and make changes, an excellent explanation as to why bigger is not better and why our government is in trouble, which he readily admitted.

He very ably addressed the question, "Is the Democratic Party going to return to its federalist roots in the near future?" citing personal examples and his own involvment and preferences. He told us that he recommends that Democratic party members get involved in their community so that the public will perceive the Democrats as people who CARE about their neighbors and their community. (Sound familiar?) He also said non-voting blocs are partly the result of "self-fulfilling" prophecy. Once a particular group perceived as not voting is ignored, the group feels disenfranchised and does not

He characterized today's society as one of "shoplifters". In his words, "Shoplifters are people who want something but are not willing to pay for it." Everyone wants their costs reduced but not at the expense of programs they think are necessary.

His remarks were well received by the audience who interacted until the chair cut off questions at 9:45 pm. People lingered around afterward talking until closing time. The conversation was lively, the chair kept the topics moving from one person to the next quickly and smoothly and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves very much. A style and format worth following.

Answer the call

By Gail Lightfoot 🖾

JUST DAYS before the 1994 general election in November, a letter arrived in the post addressed to "Dear Friends of Liberty". Written by Lawrence Goldberg, chair of the LPC Fundraising Committee, the letter hit on some of the exciting things that occurred during the election season to encourage party activists into thinking that 1994 would see voters turning out to vote for our candidates in record numbers.

The election has come and gone and many of our members may feel discouraged by the results. I challenge you to look beyond the numbers and percentages to see the tremendous amount of activism generated by Election '94. We had a record number of dedicated, committed, credible candidates running real professional campaigns for office. A record number of Libertarians seeking city council seats demonstrated that libertarians are willing to serve and prove themselves to the voters.

Not only do city council members help their communities, they show the voters that libertarians can and will get the job done. Aggressive, professional campaigns by Libertarian candidates at all levels prompted the media to pay attention as never before. Money was spent efficiently with billboards and TV spots being aired for the first time at the local level. Libertarian candidates in Election '94 were more visible, more articulate, more convincing to the voter than ever before. Our $message\ in\ the\ Ballot\ Pamphlet\ brought\ in\ record\ numbers\ of$ calls to the 800 number.

For the first time, each of the state party candidates of all parties had a statement in the Voter Pamphlet. This generated even more calls. From this side, it looks like we had a record year for Libertarian candidates and the Libertarian Party of California. So, I say, if you did not make a committment to the LPC when you got that letter from Lawrence Goldberg, make that committment now. Don't let the numbers and percentages dicourage you. Let all the good things you have done and seen done during Election '94 continue on into '95 and '96. Become part of the solution — the Libertarian solution. Pledge your support to the LPC today.
