Chairman’s Notes

Proud Libertarians of Colorado:

The LPCO has two new affiliates. Denver and Jefferson Counties have recently filed with the Secretary of State. WELCOME! We are also seeing organizational action San Juan County. See the Frontier Project in this newsletter for more information.

In the last couple of months we have accomplished major goals including the defeat of proposition CC, which would have taken our right to be asked about tax increases away forever. We also gained ground defeating prop 1A in Jefferson and Arapahoe counties, and currently have four elected officials in Colorado!

November featured the Day of the Dead Phone Banking, Get out the Vote, and Fundraising Party encouraging members to buy conventions tickets. I’m happy to report convention sales have already exceeded the sales in recent years. Our customary Festivus party, complete with the aluminum pole and the airing of grievances, raised over $1,700 for the LPCO.

As a new year approaches, I see new opportunities of growth for the LPCO. 2020 is an election year and a great time to get involved at the local and state level. We know that more than half of the people in Colorado do not ascribe to either of the political parties in the duopoly and that we can make a real difference by promoting the ideals of liberty. While the Democrats and Republicans have continued to grow government, we offer a real solution that can be attained in the local scene. It is in Colorado that we can make an impact that will directly affect people in our community at the local level. In the last legislative session in Colorado we had over 500 new laws passed that infringed directly on our rights. It is by getting libertarians elected to these positions that we can stop such infringements or at least slow down the exponential growth of government. I call on you to get involved and run for office or volunteer in campaigns in 2020. It is imperative that we stand up for our principles and not allow Colorado to become a place where tyranny reigns and we let government run rampant. To quote my grandfather, and Edmund Burke “The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing.” Let’s not allow that to happen! Get involved! Run for office!

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to email me at statechair@lpcolorado.org

State Chairman

Taking it Local
by Caryn Ann Harlos

Where Libertarians can often have the greatest impact is in their local communities. The activities of Party members, like the current LPDC Chair, Wayne Harlos, are illustrative of this principle. In 2017, he and many local friends and neighbors were discussing that their town, Castle Rock, appoints its Mayor by and from the members of the Town Council, rather than having a direct vote from the town residents. They observed that the Town Council benefited from and liked that system to the potential detriment of residents and wondered if many other residents felt the same way. Instead of simply griping and complaining, they formed a committee to spearhead a petition effort to put this question before the voters, and Harlos was selected as the committee chair.

Over the following few months, Harlos also helped form a coalition that crossed Party lines which gathered over 7300 signatures, placing it on the 2018 election, and it won, 64% to 36%. Do not let anyone tell you that a handful of people (or (Continued on page 4)

The Frontier Project: San Juan
by Matthew DiGiallonardo

In an effort to mimic the success of the national party’s Frontier Project, the Libertarian Party of Colorado will be launching the San Juan Project in 2020. Efforts to reach all registered voters, find candidates, and win offices will be part of this plan, with phase one focused on making initial contact with all voters from every party in San Juan County.

San Juan County is the least populated county in the state, with the vast majority of the county’s population residing in Silverton. This county offers us the opportunity to win seats at a higher level than we’ve had in Colorado since Bill Masters was elected as the Libertarian sheriff of San Miguel County (which neighbors San Juan County) two decades ago.

Goals will include increasing registration numbers; finding opportunities for outreach, and getting Libertarians on the ballot for county races in 2020 and 2022.

even one person) cannot make a difference. In the previous year, I (Wayne’s wife, Caryn Ann Harlos) successfully sued the State of Colorado to win back Coloradoans First Amendment rights to take photographs of their ballots.

Piggybacking on that success, Wayne Harlos ran for Town Council that same year and earned 27% of the votes in a three-way race. His campaign was conducted with the same professionalism as any old party candidates, raising money and knocking on many doors.

Take a look around your neighborhood? What can you do to be a hometown Libertarian hero?

If you would like to donate directly to this cause, you can do so online at lpcolorado.org/donate/ and specify “San Juan Project” in the notes. Thank you very much for your continued support, and with your help, we could very well turn a county gold in the coming years.

National Platform Committee

Colorado has long been a leader in the Libertarian movement. We are pleased to announce that as one of the top eight states for National Membership will have 35 delegate slots for the National Convention in Austin. As a top ten state, we receive one representative on the National Platform Committee. The Platform is our official statement on issues. It is edited and adopted every two years.

Because we also have a Colorado Libertarian elected to the LNC who has been seated on the Platform Committee and made interim Chair by the LNC, Colorado will have two representatives on the National Platform Committee this year!

We would like you to meet your 2020 representatives, and they would love to hear your ideas about what our National Platform should include.
